

TRAINING DAY

Last issue we talked about the lack of proper tarmac rally driver training, especially in regard to pace notes and safety. Motor Sport Academy's Tim Possingham has responded by putting together courses to service enthusiasts, racers, tradespeople and corporations involved in the motorsport.

The academy's most notable rally course is the intensive Tarmac Rally Preparation Course which focuses on pace note writing, strategic planning, driving tips and techniques for a successful tarmac rally campaign.

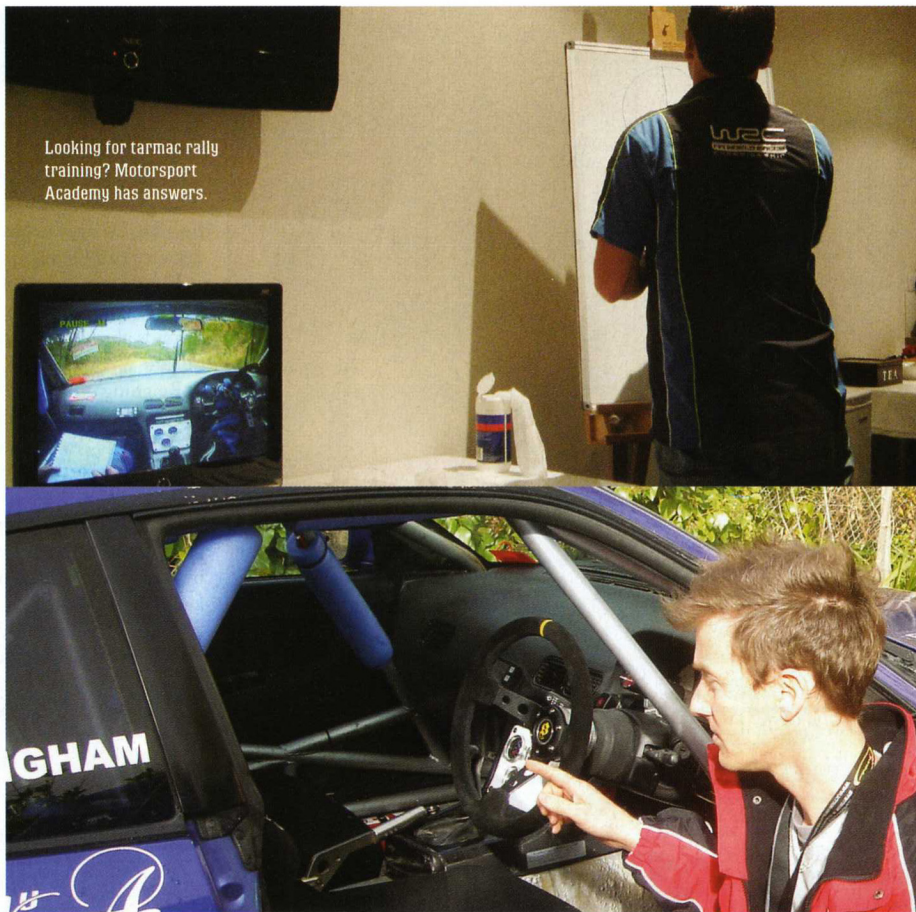

Delivered by Tim Possingham and Darren Lee who have a history of ARC, State and various tarmac rallies between them, it is aimed at competitors with limited or no competition experience and those wishing to better their results in competition.

The course has a 'real world' competition slant on the content and is easily digested and translated into better, safer results on the track.

Held over one weekend, there is also a large practical component where attendees do a mock rally and actual reconnaissance and pace note writing on real Classic Adelaide Stages. There's also on-going e-mail and phone support along with a jacket and discount vouchers.
